Will Provide Safety For Judge Cantrill.

He Has Received Anonymous and Threatening Letters.

Georgetown, Ky., Oct. 16.—(Spl.)—Judge Cantrill is being closely guarded as a result of an incident that occurred Monday night. The judge is ill, and feared he was about to be kidnapped. Mrs. Cantrill ordered a cot brought into the court house for his use in such event, so that he would not be compelled to adjourn court. When the cot was being carried into the court house Monday night three men described as probably mountaineers, approached the men carrying the cot and asked who it was for. "Judge Cantrill," was the reply.

"That's right," replied one of the strangers, "he'll need it before this case is over."

Prosecuting Attorney Franklin immediately ordered a guard around Cantrill's house and the judge is being closely watched.

Threatening letters have been received by both Cantrill and Franklin, and even their wives have been victims of these letter writers.

The most important witness in Powers' case yesterday was Mrs. Fannie

Hefner, who, last night, testified to having seen a messenger boy on the Capital steps immediately after Goebel was shot and also saw Policeman Thomason on Broadway. The defense will contend that the messenger boy, Staffey, was in another section of the town, and that Thomason was not in the immediate neighborhood which makes her testimony important.

This morning the first witness was Frank Heendy, who described the scene a moment after the shooting of Goebel.

Georgetown, Ky., Oct. 16.—(Spl.)—Like Hopkins, in the Powers trial today testified that Caleb Powers told him that on the morning of the Goebel assassination that Goebel would be killed before night. Hopkins later admitted that he had eleven times faced a jury on murder charges, three victims being laid to his credit.

He also wears scars of knife and bullet received in many other little troubles, as he called them. Hopkins is Deputy Sheriff and Deputy Assessor of Bell county.

PLENTY OF AIR.

DEATH

Penalty to be Urged.

To Punish Attempts on President's Life.

Congress Will be Urged to Act.

It Will Also Encourage America's Merchant Marine.

Washington, Oct. 16.—(Spl.)—Representative Dalzell, of Pittsburgh, is in the city and has had two or three consultations with the President upon important topics that are to be taken up by Congress.

"One of the first matters that will be dealt with," he said, "is that of legislation aimed at anarchists. Congress has ample power to deal with the question and a law will probably be framed making an attack upon the President or those in succession to the Presidency a capital offense."

"I do not believe that Congress will meddle with the tariff question this year. It seems to me that it would be foolish to disturb present conditions in the business world. Under the present tariff laws we are enjoying greater prosperity than ever before in our history."

"I believe that Congress will enact some sort of a measure to encourage our merchant marine. We are paying out two hundred million dollars a year to foreign carriers of our goods and might just as well have the money as give it to our neighbors across the water. The Isthmian canal will probably be provided for by the coming session of Congress."

BELIEVES

His Son Will Go Free.

Gen. Molineux Pleased With Decision.

Talks About Bravery and Patience of Roland.

New York, Oct. 16.—(Spl.)—General E. L. Molineux, father of Roland B. Molineux, said last night that the granting of an appeal of his son's case meant that Roland would be exonerated of the charge of poisoning Mrs. Kate J. Adams and expressed his hope that the real poisoner might soon be pointed out.

"I know that my son is innocent and also who the guilty one is," said the Colonel. "I hope soon to be able to point him out publicly. I will devote my life to proving the innocence of Roland. In fact, I can neither get sick nor die until this has been established beyond all doubt."

"Roland and I will clear the name of Molineux from the stain upon it. You cannot doubt that I am a brave man and do you think I am afraid to die? No. Nor is my boy. He has been both brave and patient in all this trouble."

New York, Oct. 16.—(Spl.)—It is stated today by lawyers generally that Roland B. Molineux will never be tried again and that he will go free, and as he was convicted on evidence which the Supreme court held should have been excluded altogether.

NO FAITH

In Reported Steel Combine.

Wall Street Brokers Not Uneasy.

Present Condition of the Market Will Not Warrant Coalition.

New York, Oct. 16.—(Spl.)—Wall Street places little credence in the report that the various independent steel companies will combine and that it in turn was to be swallowed by the United States corporation.

It was pointed out in the street today that the condition of the market at the present time would not warrant any such coalition, as the brokers who were handling the stock of the steel trust, had all they could attend to in floating the stocks of the present corporation. The street is usually the first to hear of any combine and not an inkling of the reported amalgamation had its origin here.

CARNEGIE

Is Being Used as Tammany Capital.

His Gift of $5,500,000 Is Explained.

New York, Oct. 16.—(Spl.)—Since the mayorality campaign began Tammany has been stringing numerous banners over the city telling the public that Andrew Carnegie said "New York was the best governed city in the world" and that he gave $5,500,000 to New York under the present administration for public libraries.

Carnegie was informed of the fact and he replied: "It was not my intention that my sentence should serve to mean or to apply to anything but a government of domestic order and peace, such as ruled in Col. Strong's time, when I uttered the expression. My corporate management seems to me, is a personal refutation to the unfair and unmanly assertion that I gave money to any partisan cause."

"WISE MAN"

Keepeth a Silent Tongue" Wrote the Swindlers.

They Gave Mr. Kepler Much Advice In a Letter.

Almost every day some new feature is brought forth attesting to the smoothness of the swindlers who fleeced Huston Kepler out of $5,000.

It is believed the letters they have sent back are attempts at covering their tracks, but by an oversight of Mr. Kepler this plan was somewhat impaired. The first letter was to Mr. Kepler, and it is supposed to have been the plan of the swindlers that he should read the contents and become at once submissive to its arguments, so that nothing unusual would have been imagined from the letter received later by Liverman Camron, at Clinton.

But Mr. Kepler, after it became plain to him that he was the victim of a shrewd swindle—after he came forth from what he terms "an hypnotic spell"—was somewhat unnerved and excited. It is said he did not wait to open the grip containing the worthless green paper by the natural process, but slashed it open with a knife. After a glimpse at the contents, it is claimed, Mr. Kepler dealt the hollow mockery of a satchel a very swift kick—even with such swiftness that it was sent some several rods away, with the contents following according to the taste of the "gentle breeze." One article in the satchel was a letter. It was picked up later by Mr. Kepler, so the story goes—at any rate, it was not placed in the hands of officers until Tuesday, when Detective John T. Norris obtained it from Mr. Kepler.

"If these are the men I think they are, they must have left a letter in the satchel, too," queried Detective Norris while talking with Mr. Kepler Tuesday.

"They did," was the reply, "and I have it yet."

The letter was produced. It was not signed, but read like this:

"If you are wise you will say nothing about this affair. Had you won from us you would doubtless have said nothing, as it would call down upon you the charge of being a gambler. You are too nice an old man to bear the burden of such a charge."

"If you tell about your being swindled in a card game, your family will doubt you, society will have nothing to do with you, and you will be jeered by boys, and laughed at by your neighbors; the church will denounce you as a gambler, and your credit is ruined because you lied to your banker."

"There are other reasons for which you should say nothing. A gang of detectives—leeches and impostors—will seek to draw big sums from you by ridiculous promises that they will find us and your money. Take no stock in them, as we mean to reform and retire into a peaceful, Christian life, and would advise you to do likewise."

"Remember, my son, that a wise man keeps a still tongue."

DEEP MUCK LIES BELOW.

Lane School Building Site May Have to be Changed.

Although the School Board has been urged strongly to build its new school on rock and of rock, it is said that the gentlemen of the Board have unintentionally been working toward the establishment of the Lane school on a foundation of muck.

The lots that were purchased some time ago were filled in and, to the casual observer, appeared to be all that was desired as a place for the school.

Now that the time approaches for the beginning of the building, holes have been dug to see the nature of the ground on which the foundations will have to be established, it was soon found that the land had formerly been a marsh and under the filling that made it appear stable and substantial, was a layer of muck of indefinite depth, that may preclude the possibility of building so large and heavy a structure as the Lane school is intended to be, on that site.

Holes have been dug at different places on the lot and the findings have been invariably muck. The board is now in a quandary, and it may be that it will have to sell the lot now in its possession and buy one some where else in order that it may build with safety and ultimate profit.

While some of the members live in the vicinity of the lot, and while they evidently knew that it was formerly marshy, it was thought that there would be no trouble to find ground solid enough for the Lane school foundation, somewhere under the filling that was placed on the ground to make it salable.

If it were merely a residence that was projected for the place, there would be no trouble, and it is only on account of the great weight of the building that the members of the Board have their doubts as to the safety of the place.

THE WEATHER:

FAIR AND COOLER.

FULL PAY

Restored to Admiral Schley.

Will Continue Until End of Court.

Rayner Expects to Close In a Week.

Washington, Oct. 16.—(Spl.)—Rear Admiral Schley will receive his full pay as senior rear admiral until the close of the Court of Inquiry. That is at the rate of $7,500 a year.

When Schley was placed on the retired list a week ago, his salary under the law, was reduced to $5,625 which is three quarters of the amount given him for active service. It was thought at the time that one department would officially assign him to attendance at the investigation which would have entitled him to full pay. No action was taken for several days but the department then, by request, it is said, made the assignment, and the Admiral's name was restored to its former place on the pay roll. Admirals Benham and Ramsey are both on the retired list, but receive full pay during their services as members of the Court of Inquiry.

Unless present plans are changed, Mr. Rayner will close Admiral Schley's side of the case in about a week. It is felt that nearly all the facts in the case have been pretty clearly established and that all that remains is the personal statement of Admiral Schley and of the officers closely connected with him regarding the campaign. Admiral Schley's own statement, of course, will be of the greatest importance.

Terrible Voyage All Alone— Young Boy Sailed Schooner.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 16.—(Spl.)—A 164-ton schooner arrived in port Tuesday, after being navigated 500 miles in autumn storms by a man and a 10 year old boy. Captain Peter Blake, in telling of the trip, said the hardships were great, but that both he and his "crew" of one, had sleep and food enough, though at irregular hours. The schooner is the R. Kanter. Just as it was ready to sail from Chicago for Bine Lake, Mich., for lumber, on Oct. 1, the crew struck. The boy alone of all the crew remained. Turning to him, Capt. Blake asked him if he would take his chances for the trip and the lad agreed. The tug was given the line and the vessel was towed out of the harbor and set sail. The log of the trip is a story of fourteen days of endless work and watchfulness.
